

Justin Osoro

June 18, 2021

If you were to ask me who is Justin Osoro? A sea of love would pour into the room. He was adored by many who crossed his path. He could light up a room and leave a smile on everyone's face; so kind, caring, passionate, headstrong, devoted, and loving. A vibrant, eccentric, genuine soul, that was dedicated to the craft of creating his best self. Justin was in love with the game of basketball and committed to making it big in doing something he loved with all his heart. No matter who came face to face with him; they knew he was a beautiful being.

Justin Osoro was twenty-five the day God called him to rest from the cares of this world. In his last moments with us, he was with Chanda his girlfriend who cared for him. Knowing he wasn't alone brings our family a sense of peace and solace. He lived in New Castle Delaware with his mother, father, and little brother. The bond Justin and his brother Derrick shared was impenetrable. They knew what true sibling love was and the relationship they had defined just how much of an attractive soul Justin was.

Justin played basketball at Wilmington University after graduating from Highland View Academy. Justin found a forever home with his basketball mates. They knew he was made to be the greatest and was going to be bigger than he ever imagined. The determination Justin had was his drive that kept his consistency in the game of basketball. Justin will forever live in our hearts because he had a purpose on earth and fulfilled it. If Justin had a goal or a task to complete, he knew how to be focused in such a way that nothing could stop him. We will always remember and admire how much drive he had; he could reach the mountain top even if he had to climb barefoot. He loved, laughed, cried, hugged, and lived his best life surrounded by his biggest fans. We will continue his legacy of being a humble, intelligent, amiable persona.

Justin Osoro is survived by his mother Carren Getuba, father Kennedy Nyabwari, younger brother Derrick Osoro, grandparents Miriam Getuba, Jonathan Nyabwari, along with a big family of cousins, aunts, uncles, and friends that have created an everlasting bond. Justin is now at rest, having been preceded by his grandfather James Getuba. His grandmother

Rebecca Nyabwari also slept a few hours after his passing. May the genuine bright smiles of their days fill our hearts with warm memories until the resurrection morning.
