“ So many memories. The one that stands out the most happened on a warm summer day way back in 1959. I was a mere 10 years old, he was 20. I had been given a brand new bicycle for Christmas from our parents. It was all I had talked about for months before. I was as excited as any little girl could possibly be when my dad carted that bicycle into the room! I could hardly wait until it was warm enough to get outside and ride it. It was a cold winter and a lot of snow that year, at least it seemed to me anyway. I was anxious. Summer came finally and I enjoyed riding my bike. I loved that bike. Mom and Dad had cautioned me about remembering to bring my bicycle onto our porch at night. They said someone might be tempted to take it if I left it in the front yard. Even with their warnings and as much as I loved my almost new bicycle I did the unthinkable. I left it lying in the front yard. The next morning first thing I was out the door and looking for my bike. It was gone. Vanished just like that. The tears streaming down my cheeks I had to tell Mom what had happened. She said, well we warned you this might happen. I found no comfort in her words. This is where Carlos comes into the story. A few days passed it seemed like months to me. I remember staying in the house now most of the time. I had no desire to go outside. I heard my big brother Carlos yelling for me. I do mean he was yelling!!! I ran to see what it was that caused him to be yelling my name. There on our front porch stood my big brother holding my bicycle in one hand and covering his one eye with his other. He had the biggest swollen eye I had ever seen! From here he said he spotted my bicycle in a yard a few miles from our home. There were three rough looking characters standing guard over my bicycle. They even admitted to him that yeah , they had taken it. What you gonna do about it they ask him! That's when a big fight broke out. All I know after that is I got my bike back and we'll Carlos had a new reputation! Don't mess with those Mack boys! I was one happy Sister. Well Carlo's eye healed up but I will never forget my hero, my big brother, Carlos 💕

I'm so sorry for your loss! I only met Carlos a couple times but remembered how handsome he was and how highly my Sister thought of him. Peggy sends her love and prayers and knows that Carlos was a christian man and is with Jesus now. Debbie Kidd and Peggy Ayer

My best memory is my brother and I sitting in my living room with snacks and watching baseball. Which was his favorite sport, except for maybe golf. If only we could relive or memories one more time. I will cherish every moment we shared. RIP BROTHER
