“ Charlie, it's taken me a long time to be able to write something on your tribute wall-because of the way things ended for us. I think I always thought we would get back together but then life moved on as it does. But you were never far from my conscious. Oh God sometimes I can just close my eyes and I can see us; you, me, Chrissy and Dennis. The way we would drive around all nite long in that Plymouth Fury drinking and looking for the next adventure. "young and restless and bored." with the radio blasting of course. Not really having a care in the world. we would throw all our change together to buy a couple more gallons of gas so that we could keep the party going just a little bit longer. I'll never forget the pool party you had at your Mom and Tom's while they were away. The next day beer cans and cigarette butts and I think some underwear were floating in the yellow muddy water. Chrissy and I would hitchhike around Ogletown and sure enough here would come Chazzypoo in his big blue Fury. Everytime I would see you my heart would speed up because I knew I was gonna be with you and there was no place I wanted to be more than with you. Remember all the nights we camped out at Conowingo Dam and we would get that slate all over our feet. Remember ALL the places we camped out. Remember when you lived over Sam's Pizza-our little love nest. (It's not even there any longer) I went to places with you-intimate places-that I have never gone with any other person. Remember when You just showed up at the Lynyrd Skynyrd concert in Philly and Chrissy and I snuck You in the gate. wow. We just kind of flew by the seat of our pants back then and loved it. And then living in Texas; the crazy parties we had and went to. How 'bout staying up all night then decide we were gonna drive to Austin in the worst torential downpour and our windshield wiper wer'nt working. I really did think I was gonna die that night. Then freezing all night in a tent in Austin because we didn't pack warm clothes. ugh! Charlie I have so many memories- too numerous to list here. But the greatest memory that I have is receiving unconditional love from you-I felt like we communicated on a higher level. Much like soulmates. I know I was not the easiest person to love but you did it anyway. and for that I am forever grateful. until we meet again-My Sweet Charlie signed,

Smartass

“ Charlie will be missed by loved ones; both family and friends. When we are feeling sad for his loss; we are really sad for ours. May I suggest to all to remember that special wonderful smile that he gave each and everyone of us every time we came in contact; no matter if it had been 1 day, week, month, or possibly years since that last contact. He had a joy for life and loved ones that he expressed openly-contagiously that warmed our hearts and put a smile on our faces. That is how I will remember my special friend.
