“ To my brother-in-law, Earl...thank you for taking care of my step-sister and allowing her to perform all the duties of being your wife. Being married to you gave her a family, a place to belong and an identity. And for your unwavering loyalty to her as her husband, It is a true example and a testament to what a real marriage is; and what your love for her and your family really meant to you. RIP, and may you meet together in heaven one day and rejoice in the honesty and authenticity of that love. Thank you for your military service. And as you would always say upon departures, "Don't make yourself a stranger."
