

Lyra Marie Magliacane

October 26, 2017

Lyra Marie Magliacane, nee Carpenter, died suddenly on October 26, 2017. Lyra was a loving, caring mother, a gifted author of books, stories and poetry and a talented photographer. She adored her children and they were her pride and joy. Home schooling the children when they were young, she found creative games and activities for them to participate in. She also enjoyed taking them fishing and to the park to acquaint them with nature. Lyra believed in helping others. She was a caring person and helped those in need, whether it was teaching someone to read, helping with housework, or listening to their problems. She was concerned for the welfare of those who could not help themselves. She volunteered at a food bank, a shelter for battered women and various charities. Her life was cut short far too soon, leaving unfinished all she aspired to do to help those less fortunate than she. Lyra was enrolled at Cecil County Community College and hoped to one day become a counselor to help battered women, children and the homeless. Lyra is loved and will be missed by her family and friends and will be remembered by all who knew her.

Lyra was predeceased by her parents, Barbara and Les Carpenter. She is survived by her children: Natalia, Cheyenne and David Camacho, Jacob Henry and Thomas Magliacane; brother, Charlie (Dorothy); husband, Ron Magliacane; and by many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Services will be private. In lieu of flowers, please donate to the Cecil County
